Xmas and New Year Card: at c st. CHRISTMAS BALLAD AT BRENGLE'S

Mary had a little cake. It: ice was white as snow; 'Twas fair to see and sweet to tiste,

For Brengle makes them so. She took the cake to school one day: It was against the rule; For children all love Brenzle's cakes And take a bite in school.

An'so the teacher took the cake And eat it on the sly; And after school, with solemn face, She told the child a ite.

She said the mice had eat the cake And thought it very nice: That all of them that tested it Had turned to candy mice.

The candy mice the windows show And tempt the boys to break, Were just the very little mice That mbbied Mary's cake.

But Mary was not fooled at all. "Too thin." was all she spake. The teacher quick to Brengle's skipped And bou hi snother cake

And Brengle has lots of such Cakes on hand for Christmes. His CH AIS I'M AS CAKES, Black, Fruit, Pound, Jelly and Fancy, Ornamental and Plain, are sold cheaper than they can be manu factured at home. A Horrible Story.

Half column .....

Further particulars of the duable murder show it to have been a most horrible affair. He was a workman in the Coleman Ore Mine, and boarding in the family of Mr. Joseph Gogle, had fal'en in love with one of their o'd. Her parents o'j cted, and a quarrel ensued. After all the family were aster p. he entered the room of the aged courle and brained them both with an axe. He then went to the chamber of Alice. where, besides Alice, were a girl named Clara Young and Mary Gogle, a younger sister. He conducted himself in a shameless and brutal mapper, and the terrified girls-two of them were children-screamed at the top of their voices. Clara and Mary, crying morder, ran into the room of Mr. and Mrs. Gogle for protection, only to find their bloody corpses, and the bed, and even the walls, covered with gore. Overcome with terror, they tottered from the room and mount the stairs, screaming. The murderer, bravely repulsed by Alico, was still in her room, but when he heard Clara and Mary returning, he pushed them into another room and locked the door. They remained there some time, shivering with cold and terror, when the murderer allowed them to go into a room above the kitchen, which was warmer. The room was heated by a pipe from the ki cheo stove, and while they were confined to this room they saw the murderer, though the stove pipe hole, burning the shirt which he had worn when committing the murders. The poer girls passed the rest of the night almost dead from fright and suspense. About 4 c'clock in the morning Soyder left the house and alarmed the neighbors, telling them that a murder had been committed in G g'e's house. He displayed no exc ement or concern, but when the people begau to assemble he disappeared. The exoitement spread, and soon a very large crowd had assembled from all directions, including Detective Yerke, of Bethlehem. Threats of luncaing were at once made contingent upon the finding of the murderer. The two murdered people and that so berrible a crime should have been committed for so foul an end by one who lived in the house of his votime was exasperating in the extreme and provoked the bitterest menaces. The farmers and neighbors, though excited in action, seemed, in talking of vengeance, perfectly cool and clear. It was altogether a singular scene, and was followed by one still more remarkable for a peaceful county like Northampton. This was the banging of the murderer by a crowa of men who uttered neither curses nor reprosches, but pulled hard and calmly on the end of a rope, to the other end of which a human being was swinging into eternity. Several hours were spent in the search for Seyder, and he was at last found storeted in Capt. Kilter's barn under the sheaves of wheat. A revolver was taken from him and the detecive handouffed him. He was taken to the house where his violins lay, and there the crowd broke into fory. They entered the house, overpowered the detective, threw him out of the door, and marched the murderer to a tree in the front yard, where he was told to prepare for death. He begged for a reprieve of .n bour, but it was denied him. The detective attempted to interesde, assuring the lynchers that the murderer could not escape being hanged if they permitted him to be tried by a jury, and that the district attorney had been sent for and was momentarily expected. His pleading was of no avail, and the prisoner was quickly hoisted into the sir. He died instantiy, his nick being broken. During the interval between the capture and lynching the murderer confessed his crime, closing with the remark' 'I did the deed and suppose they will bang me for it." The district attorney is invistigating the lynching, and will, if possible, bring the lynchers to justice.

THE WEST VIRGINIA BEGULATORS .- A dicpatch from Parkersburg, W. Va., says: "The Red Men, or Vigilants, are still keeping cortain neighborhoods in the adj cent counties lively A few rights sires a man who had been a mail carrier, having made himself obnoxious to the Regulators, was taken out of a house in Richie county and severely whipped. Following this comes an additional account from Ualhoun. A man named Davis, who lived on Spring creek, Rosne county, had done something which give off use to the regulating gentry, and a few nights since the Regulators made a raid on his house for the purpose of measuring out justice in their peculiar way. Davis has been apprised of their intention and was on the lookout for them, for when the band came they were confronted by Davis and his wife standing in the doorway, who warned them off. Not heeding this, the band still approached Davis and his wife then opened fire on the marauders, and the ir leader (-trouse) fell to the earth a corpse. Maddened by the eath of their captain, and the gang failing to bring the inmates out by any other means they set fire to the house. In the meantime they set lire to the house. In the meantime the dastardly crew surrounded the premises, and as Davis and his wife ran out from the building the former was easily caught. He was then severely whipped, and had both his ears cut off close to his head."

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE

-1881-

The ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE, begun in 1779, is the oldest newspaper in the State, and the only daily published in Northern Virginia. It has survived, with few exceptions, all the committed by Joseph Soyder, near Easton, Pa., | public presses in America which saw with it tha dawn of the nineteenth century. It lives, too, not in decay, but full of life and vigor, giving all the news, telling the truth without daughters named Alica, who is only 14 years fear, favor or affection, trenching on the privacy of no man's home, but full to the brim with all public information, and giving daily honest judgments of public men and public measures.

> It furnishes the news telegrams of the New York Associated Press and of Reuter's European agency, being, with but three exceptions, the only paper between Baltimore and Richmond that is thus connected with the great fountsins of the world's news.

> With the coming year all the long tried and improved methods of making a standard newspaper will be continued, with such additional facilities as past experience justifies the proprietor in believing will add to the capacity of the Gazette to serve its readers. It expects to render faithful service to the city, the state and the country by a candid criticism of men and events in the interest of the people of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

To meet all the demands upon it, the Gazatte will be made a WASHINGTON and RICH-MOND NEWSPAPER, as well as an ALEX-ANDRIA JOURNAL. The Richmond and Washington news of past years has left little to improve, but yet greater effort will be made to insure absolute perfiction in these departments,

The city of Alexandria will find as usual its daily history in each evening's issue, and the intelligence of that section of the Common wealth which nature has bound to Alexandria by the curvature of its mountains or the courses of its rivers as well as that portion linked to us by the iron bands of railways, will be assiduously

The Business and Commercial columns of the Gazette will be filled with the earliest and most exact commercial news, edited with such painstaking care as will render an error, where even slight errors are dangerous, impossible.

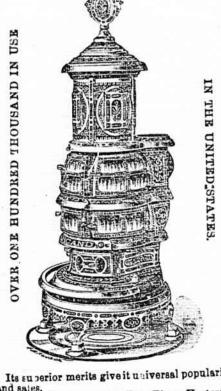

The Cattle Markets of all the leading points of the world whose rates affect this market will be quoted, and regular statements of the Baltimore. Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria sales of cattle will appear.

The Flour, Grain and Produce movements will be noted daily, and the sales of the Alexandris and neighboring markets given with accuracy and dispatch. The Grocery and other merkets will receive constant attention, and the money or stock markets of the country epitomized for its columns, full details being given to all stocks, &c., which find investors in this section of the country.

The advertising columns of the Gazette offer inducements which experience has shown to afford greater returns for a small investment than any other which can be made.
